

Playing Lotería: How to Make your own Game

WORKSHOP TITLE

DESCRIPTION

This activity will guide you through the process of making your own summer board game inspired by the traditional game of Lotería. This board game is said to have originated in Europe and was brought to Mexico in 1769. It is a multiplayer game that includes a “caller,” who calls out the cards using riddles, while players fill out their tablas (or playing cards) by placing a small object on top of the picture called. Once a player’s tabla is full, they can yell out “LOTERÍA” to win the game.

Follow along and learn how to make your own Lotería playing set inspired by your favorite summer foods and activities. Continue adding new cards to the game and play with your friends and family all summer long!

MATERIALS

- 4 sheets of white paper
- pencil
- eraser
- ruler
- marker or crayons
- scissors

ESSENTIAL QUESTIONS

1. What exciting games do you and your family enjoy playing during the summer?
2. What are some of your favorite summer activities or treats and how would you represent them using symbols?

WORKSHOP INSTRUCTIONS

1. Make 9 squares on each sheet of paper by folding each sheet into thirds vertically, then horizontally.
 - This will create 9 squares on each sheets of paper.
2. Use a ruler and pencil to outline the creases that you made on each paper.
3. Think about your favorite summer activities and treats. What symbols can be used to represent them?
 - Make a list of at least 15 different symbols.
4. Let's make the calling cards!
 - Take two sheets of paper and sketch one symbol inside of each square.
 - When you are done, you will have three empty squares that will not be used.
5. Use markers or crayons to color in the calling cards.
6. Cut out each calling card using scissors.
7. Time to make the tablas (boards) for the game!
 - Take the last two sheets of paper and decide what symbols you wish to add onto each tabla.
 - Keep in mind, each tabla can have similar symbols, but cannot be identical.
8. Use a pencil to sketch in symbols. Then, use markers or crayons to color each symbol in.
9. You are done! Share with your friends and family and play a round!
